1 PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

As the new school year begins, I am excited to share our focus for this academic year, which centers around two important areas: establish a healthy lifestyle and embrace a healthy life, and inherit Chinese virtues, strengthen national and national security education, and cultivate positive values and attitudes.

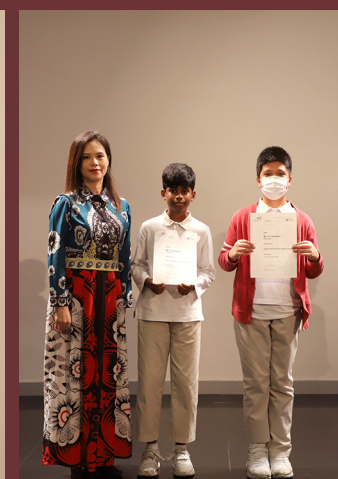

First, promoting a healthy lifestyle is essential for all of our students. In today's fast-paced world, it is crucial to prioritize both physical and mental well-being. We encourage everyone to engage in regular exercise, make nutritious food choices, and develop healthy habits that will last a lifetime. Additionally, we must foster an environment where open discussions about mental health are welcomed. By supporting one another and sharing our experiences, we can create a school culture that prioritizes well-being and resilience.

Second, we will place a strong emphasis on inheriting Chinese virtues and strengthening national and national security education. Understanding our rich cultural heritage is vital for shaping our identities and reinforcing our core values. By embracing virtues such as respect, integrity, and responsibility, we not only define ourselves as individuals but also strengthen our community as a whole. It is equally important for us to recognize our roles in maintaining a peaceful and prosperous society, especially in the context of national security.

Together, let us commit to these goals as we embark on this academic journey. By focusing on establishing a healthy lifestyle and embracing our Chinese virtues, we can create a nurturing environment where everyone can grow, learn, and thrive. I am looking forward to a productive and enriching school year ahead, filled with opportunities for personal and collective growth. Let's make this year a memorable one!
